Our Ethos

Clay Space redefines tableware by blending beauty with bold, innovative design. We challenge the notion that “good design” must be safe or subtle; our pieces range from intricately decorated drinking vessels to understated plates that let the food take centre stage. Our approach balances matching and complementary sets, offering clients the freedom to create collections that are uniform or uniquely varied yet cohesive. We believe in crafting a fresh, modern take on traditional table settings, where similarity and individuality coexist in harmony.

Our vision as a studio

Clay Space studio sets itself apart by respecting pottery traditions but not being married to them. We believe that experimentation and exploration are a priority, and can lead to exciting results! Our studio is both a home for not only tea cups and saucers, but also as well as contemporary sculpture, video art, photography and poetry.

Company Values

Since opening the studio in 2020 we wanted the studio to not simply be a place for business, irrespective of the community we were moving into. It is part of our mandate, in addition to being a for-profit business, to be relevant and engaged with the Gerrard Street East community. Throughout the year we frequently collaborate with NGO's and various charities to offer affordable/free art programs to under represented communities. This has included many collaborations with the Gardiner Museum's CAS program.

We also run the Clay and Creative Heart workshops which offers affordable ceramic workshops to BIPOC members of the public.

Lastly, we host exhibitions throughout the year of non-ceramic content, which has included Contact Photography exhibition, Design TO exhibits and experimental video art screenings. These shows are meant to bring a fresh perspective to what seems like a ceramics only studio.

Hand Thrown Collection: Shadow Plates

Crafted from mid-fired porcelain and finished with a clear glaze, these plates are made using cardboard stencils held in place as an atomizer sprays glaze onto the surface. By blowing into one of the two straws on the atomizer, the user creates soft, shadow-like impressions that subtly hint at shapes and forms.

The designs are understated yet elegant, incorporating geometric elements that complement other pieces in the collection. With high flanges and a refined white colour, these plates make a striking addition to any dining table, adding beauty without overwhelming the setting.

Gardiner Museum Community Art Space Summer Workshop 2024

Vichy Product Launch at Clay Space Studio 2024

Private Events

The Clay Space studio is open for booking private events for both companies and individuals. Typically, these events consist of a two-hour workshop where participants are guided by our instructors in hand-building and using the pottery wheel. A minimum of four (4) participants is required, with a maximum of 20.

These workshops are ideal for corporate gatherings or birthday celebrations. While we welcome outside catering, please be aware that we do not provide catering services.

Please email us at info@clayspacestudio.com for more pricing and service inquiry.

Classes

8-Week Classes

Our eight (8) -week classes cater to students of all skill levels, from beginners to advanced. Each session includes instruction in pottery wheel techniques, hand building, and glazing. By the end of the course, beginners will have a solid foundation in essential techniques, enabling them to work more independently.

Beginner Workshops

Designed for complete beginners, these two (2)-hour workshops guide students in creating one hand-built project and one wheel-thrown piece. Many newcomers find the pottery wheel intimidating, so we simplify the process into manageable steps. Participants often experience joyful surprises with their hand-built creations.

ClayDate

This drop-in studio option is perfect for those with prior pottery experience, whether from Clay Space or another studio. Sessions run for 2.5 hours every other Saturday from 6 PM to 8:30 PM. While drop-ins are welcome, we encourage pre-registration to ensure your spot.

Clay and the Creative Heart (CCH)

Targeted towards BIPOC (Black, Indigenous, and People of Color) community members, these workshops offer two-hour hand-building sessions at an affordable price. CCH is a monthly initiative aimed at making pottery more accessible. Please contact us for more details.
